

Perspectives for Women in Life Sciences

PhD students and post-docs are welcome to join talks, discussions, workshops and CV checks. Take the chance to get information about different career opportunities and sharpen your soft skills.

We have invited several notable speakers coming from academic and non-academic research, service institutions and consulting. They will give presentations in which they will reflect on their careers and field of action and will discuss with you the perspective for young scientists. Furthermore, participants will be given additional opportunities concerning their career management. Male scientists are also strongly encouraged to attend.
